

ABSTRACT

A method for graphical programming of industrial controllers, in particular motion controllers, that automatically generates suitable graphical elements and respective masks in motion control flowchart notation from user-defined
5 structured text subprograms of a structured textual language.